From the Chapter Directors Corner:

Well, what can I say, we are in the middle of our riding season and the heat and humidity is in full swing as well. The oppressive heat with heat indexes into the triple digits makes it difficult and sometimes dangerous to plan a ride.

Plan accordingly. Drink water and electrolyte drinks, even if you don't think you are thirsty. Carry cooling rags and use them. More frequent stops and longer rest times are needed and watch each other closely for signs of heat stroke, heat exhaustion or other maladies that can be brought on by this excessive heat.

We all know what to do in this weather, we just have to implement our training. Above all, be safe and watch out for each other.

Chapter Rides:

All those who wander are not lost (they may just be looking for some really good ice cream 😊)

Events, Rides, and associated Goings Ons.....

And what do we ride for?

Well Ice cream of course...After the July meeting as we always do if weather permits we rode to Sebree for ice cream, but also for...

Family, this picture caught the true meaning of what our group stands for, family, not by blood but by shared interests and experiences...

Hubers Winery

The ride to Hubers Winery was wonderful. We had two trikes and a car. This place is very interesting and we should think about a fall ride.

The food was great, wasn't it Jim 😊

Mi Pueblito

Chapter K had a dinner ride to Mi Pueblito on Thursday July 17th. It was a rainy day and we all drove but had a great crowd with 12 people. The food was wonderful, thanks for the recommendation, Greg !

I didn't get any pictures sorry gotta find a new photographer, cause I do a terrible job.

Ride to Van's Restaurant and Birdseye for Ice Cream.

On July 26th we rode to Van's restaurant and then to Birdseye for some wonderful ice cream! Even in the oppressive heat, we had three trikes, a Rewaco and a car. Lots of fun back roads that many of us had never been on before. Thanks Charles, for leading this great ride.

Future Rides:

Storm the Mountains, Big Bone Gap, VA. July 30-August 3

The ride to get to Big Bone Gap will be half the fun. The event is for all types of vehicles: two-wheelers, trikes, slingshots, cars, jeeps, etc.

They have a block of rooms (not available online) at the Quality Inn & Suites (276) 523-5911 and tell them you are with the Slingshot groups.

Rider Education Report

By: Richard Artmayer

Welcome to August and the arrival (finally) of the heat and humidity of summer. But the heat of the daytime is nothing like the heat in your exhaust system. Combine that with the humidity in the air, the byproducts of combustion which are basically anhydrous acids, and the fact that a motorcycle exhaust system is unprotected metal on the inside, and you have a recipe for rust and corrosion. Our exhaust systems are very well made, but after many years even the best exhaust systems will start to show the effects of aging.

The first place to check is any clamp or fastener. These places tend to catch and keep the road grime which also holds the acid rain that can eat pits into the pipes, even into the chrome plating. Next, check around the welds. By their very nature, the welds are subject to early failure due to the energy put into them during the welding process. This makes the metal in the welded area more prone to the effects of oxidation. And the third place to check is any sharp angle in the formed metal fittings and tubing of the exhaust system. Sharp angles tend to act as stress risers, where any force on the metal, be it expansion and contraction from thermal changes, or flexing from vibration from the engine or roadway, tend to be focused and lead to cracking. These cracks again tend to attract dirt and moisture.

If your bike is new or in really fine condition without much rust on the exhaust system, then prevention is easy, mainly consisting of washing and periodic scrubbing followed by some aluminized paint around the welds. If you or the previous owner have been less than diligent in the care of the exhaust system, and you find some cracks, there is still hope. Several products on the market can extend the service life of your pipes. Some are high temperature epoxies. Others are mixes of high temperature polymers and metal dust, like Blue Magic® Quik Steel™. This product is applied on warm days above 80 degrees Fahrenheit and is applied directly to the damaged area. Liberal applications spread widely over the surrounding surface help to hold the area together. After four hours of initial curing, it is time to go for a ride to finish-cure the repair. The heat in the exhaust makes this product stronger.

Shhh, we are going to have a State leaf Peeping ride the third weekend in October. Mark your calendars.
